

Reputation takes years to build and moments to destroy. Effective Public Relations (or Personal Relevance as we like to call it) is much much more than simply seeing your organisation in a publication, online or broadcast channel. PR is the oxygen that generates vital word of mouth and third party endorsement. From reviewing your PR toolkit to helping you determine target audiences and define key messages we will help you find and target the communications channels that convert reputation into relationships.